The Fundamentals Behind CBTp

Online, on-demand training

Course Instructor: Sally E. Riggs, DClInPsy

I am excited to share with you my first online course in the Fundamentals Behind CBT for psychosis. CBT for psychosis (CBTp) is an evidence-based treatment, commonly available in Europe, and recommended by best practice guidelines in both the US and the UK. This course will cover key principals that underlie CBTp and is beneficial to both licensed clinicians as a foundational component of their work towards accreditation in CBTp and to front line and milieu staff looking to increase their knowledge and skills in working with people with psychosis and reduce their job-related burnout.

Who can attend: anybody working with psychosis in a professional capacity (this training is not for family members or friends).

Training format:

The training will be entirely online and on demand.

Learning Objectives:

By the end of this online training participants will be able to:

1. Describe what psychosis is as it pertains to CBT for psychosis, listing typical myths about psychosis and being able to dispel these
2. Summarize the evidence base for CBT for psychosis, including key critiques
3. Explain the concepts of delusions and voice hearing as part of the spectrum of normal human experience
4. Demonstrate increased empathy for voice hearing and delusions by applying at least one empathy generating exercise
5. Describe the concept of “working within a delusional belief system” and be able to recite one reason why we do it

Teaching methods:

The online training will include didactic material, interactive exercises, video material, quizzes and discussion.

- Watch every slide and video to the end
- Complete all quizzes and evaluations
- Post comments to discussion where requested
- Score 75% or higher for evaluation quizzes (maximum 3 attempts)
- Complete and submit the Continuing Education evaluation and feedback form at the end of the workshop

About the Instructor:

Dr Sally E. Riggs, DClInPsy is a licensed psychologist and expert in Cognitive Behavioral Therapy for Psychosis with 22 years of experience working in this field in both London, UK and the US. She earned her Doctorate in clinical psychology at Royal Holloway, University of London, UK in 2005, where she was trained in CBTp. She completed her Postdoctoral Research Fellowship at the Aaron T. Beck Psychopathology Research Unit, University of Pennsylvania, during which she designed and facilitated a program to train Masters, Bachelors and Peer-level therapists working in a city community agency in CBT informed interventions for the psychosis milieu. From 2011 to 2015, at Kings County Hospital Center, Brooklyn, she spearheaded a CBT for psychosis treatment track in the Adult Outpatient Department, trained the Early Psychosis Inpatient unit in CBT informed interventions for the psychosis milieu, and trained and supervised clinical staff throughout the hospital in Full CBTp. She founded NYC CBTp in March 2016 as the first private practice to provide evidence-based psychotherapy for psychosis to people throughout New York and New Jersey. She founded CBTforpsychosis.com to widen the availability of her training programs to clinicians throughout the US and Canada.
